

Conflux '18: Innovations galore at IIM-V conclave

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Visakhapatnam: Thought leadership has come a long way from industrial age to social age. This was among the primary topics that came up in Indian Institute of Management-Visakhapatnam's (IIM-V) flagship business conclave 'Conflux 2018'. As-huthosh Chadha, group director, government affairs and public policy, Microsoft India, one of the speakers at the conclave elaborated on the said thought. Conducted on the theme of 'Innovation Redefining Business in Emerging Markets' on Sunday, the conclave witnessed speakers from multiple industries and domains discussing insights, innovations and leadership. Chadha spoke on fundamental leadership principles and emphasised on why empathy

Delegates lighting the inaugural lamp at the conclave on Sunday is an integral part of thought leadership.

IIM-V director Prof M Chandrasekhar, in his welcome address, said that emerging markets contribute about 23% to all innovation in the world. He thanked speakers for supporting students in their knowledge-seeking endeavour by sharing their past experiences and learnings. Ghanashyam Hegde, director and general counsel, Indian sub-continent, Proctor & Gamble, delivered insights on servant leadership, which involves the art of putting one's team ahead of oneself.